Amid Sights and Sounds.

Lower Hall.

Mrs. W. H. Turner of Portsmouth, N. H., sells the Portsmouth specialties of J. Preston's make. The first is the lavening. The others are a brand of superior cologne, Dysentery Elixir and Tobin's Family Liniment. She has a pretty stand and attracts lots of attention.

Noyes' Toothache Remedy is another thing that they sell, and a neat bottle of tooth powder completes the list.

John M. Williams of Readfield is in the jewelry business near the entrance of lower hall. Pins and bangles of gold and silver, rings, bracelets, glove buttons and wire work. Several samples of medal work are shown, and brooches are also on hand. They do hand engraving while you wait, and do it prettily too. This is the firm for whom the late Asa D. True of Norway used to work at selling name and initial pins.

Dana B. Grant of Locke's Mills fits your eyes with spectacles in all styles and shapes.

V. P. DeCoster of Buckfield shows a beautiful lot of southerly in a neat case and surrounded by bouquets of asters. The honey is of four distinct kinds and is labeled "clover, basswood, buckwheat, goldenrod."

Dairy implements, A. L. & E. P. Goss Co. of Lewiston are the display and H. A. Goss is in charge. An eight-and Cookey Creamer is at the head. There are three churns, the Davis wing, Stoddard revolving and Blanchard which The Babcock milk test will be shown in operation, and will be the official test of quality of milk given by cows on the grounds. Two patterns of butter workers, hand butter workers, butter stamps, firkins and peeling cases of all kinds are to be seen with the rest. But the pride of it all are two sizes of the United States Separator. You pour the milk in the top and it comes out of one spout pure rich cream and out of the other the bluest of skim milk. This is a practical machine and has already displaced the old skimming process in up-to-date dairy establishments.

The big long show case for domestic cookery, etc., is well filled. Mrs. Frank Noble of Norway has a notable display in this line. A nice roast chicken is in the center. Surrounding it are some neat rolls, nice fat doughnuts, layer cake, chocolate, ornamental cake, marble cake, cream cakes, nut cake, fruit cake, ribbon cake with frosting and nuts on top, molasses and sugar cookies, sugared doughnuts, tarts, cranberry jelly, blueberry pie and some little cucumber pickles. In a separate exhibit, Mrs. Noble has some brown bread, loaf white bread and angel cake. Wholesome looking food and enough of it so that the committee's work of sampling will amount to a pretty good meal.

Edna Richardson of Greenwood, aged 12 years, has a loaf each of white bread and brown bread; superior looking articles.

Y. P. DeCoster, Buckfield, white plum cake that grew taller than a barrel, good healthy stalks.

Summer Tucker, South Paris, patent frame for drying clothes; can be adjusted to suit your convenience.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, 7 varieties of potatoes: Early Rose, Beauty of Hebron, Canada Red, Early New York, Little Gem and two without names, all good size and free from scabs or other imperfections.

J. H. Neal of Norway discourses on the merits of the Singer sewing machine and gives practical illustrations of its working. He has several patterns but the glory of them all is the high arm machine with drop works. You can let the works down through the table and cover them up when not in use.

O. C. Chase shows the Improved New Leader Washer, and works it on the grounds. It works by a vibrating motion and the go is set on rubbing whatever. Heat is obtained from an oil lamp.

F. A. Young, West Paris, two squashes with his name grown in the skin. One is a Mammoth, big enough for a good lift; the other a beautiful orange Boston Market.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, long train of full ears of eight-rowed yellow field corn.

John Martin, Paris, remarkably long ears of yellow field corn.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, has a small exhibit of maple sugar and syrup. The syrup is so heavy that there is some crystallization of sugar at the bottom of the can. That same syrup is so clear that we could look through the canful and read the ADVERTISER held back of it. He has two pint cans of that and cakes of sugar made from it. It has a beautiful grain and is clear and light in color. Mr. Gurney was awarded first premium on maple sugar at State Fair, Upper Hall.

Bartlett, the Cottage Street Norway photographer, has a fine move, it is familiar scene. "They look just as natural as life," and one elderly gentleman, after looking them over, there were Pensessewasse Lake scenes, cottagers enjoying their outing, the Ontario Bicycle Club, Norway village from near the depot, the County buildings, etc.

Mrs. G. W. Hazen of Norway exhibits four very dainty water colors—a southern scene, windmill, country road and trees on the shore of a pond.

Sturtevant of Fryeburg has two oil paintings of a horse in a stable, on a blanket in one is the name "Transit."

There are three water colors of a cow, a country house, and flower-decked, two oil panel pictures of deer, also an overturned basket of grapes.

Malette Richard has a plaque with "the sweetest little girl's head" in oil. She also has an oil in black and white—a girl walking and wintry surroundings, and two water colors—clover, and a bit of seashore.

A. Arthur Jackman has a fan or screen which is whittled with a knife from wood. We doubt if job himself would have had the patience to have made it. This is one of the real curiosities.

The case of stuffed birds are very like-like, the poor little wounded one makes one shudder to look at it.

There is much fine needle work and fancy articles of many kinds; also knit goods and yarn.

E. E. Stone of Paris, mineralogist, has a case of minerals, gems, etc.

The Excelsior Frame Co. of South Paris have a case showing about one hundred different styles of moldings.

There is no lack of fruit this year. The tables are just groaning beneath its weight. Great, smooth, luscious apples, pears, grapes, plums, peaches, everything that grows in our climate.

Rugs and quilts abound and they cover the bare walls and add to the exhibit as nothing else could. They are beautiful, too, and well worthy to have a foremost place. There is one very showy quilt, a white cloth on which are twenty-five bright red houses. There are quilts with thousands of pieces no two alike and others with about the same number of pieces with less variety of material.

The two Granges, Norway and South Paris, have surely done themselves proud this year. The space each occupies is but

The Man at the Front.

Of all the opticians in a certain locality some of them must be in front—must be the best.

One of them gets the name for accuracy, safety and success. People learn by experience and learn that if they go to him to have their eyes examined and fitted with glasses there will be no "guess work" about it. They know the work will be done effectively and at moderate cost. Extreme care, long experience and accurate knowledge have made my work popular with particular people. Everybody ought to be particular when they start out to have their eyes attended to.

Our Winged Friends.

Dr. E. A. Wright of Bolster, has more than fifty fowl of various kinds. The doctor is a poultry fancier, that lives up to his convictions and keeps a large variety of birds. A pair of black-breasted red game fowl first took our eye. They are long limbed, athletic and not very stocky. Also two pairs of chicks of the same breed showing the true color and build. Two pairs of silver spaniel Hamburg fowl. These are as spotted as the leopard, but change their spots at each moult. White Wyandottes. One pair grown fowls and two pairs of chicks. They are well fed and contented, with clean legs. White Leghorns, two pairs each fowl and chicks. The chicks are possessed of remarkably fine heads, and the old birds will scale nearly a hundred points. Bantams with their queer French top-knots and fancy markings are very striking. The birds are heavier than they look and their flesh is excellent eating. Buff Cochins, two pairs of fowls. One of the roosters is remarkable for his pure buff color and stocky build. Brown Leghorns, two pairs each fowl and chicks. The next morning, Judge Davis of the Municipal Court gave the boys some good advice. They promised better behavior and were released with a warning to not be found in court again.

Livermore Falls. At Pittsfield he drove a horse in and was timed separately. 2:22 1/2 in the 50 heat. "H. P. E." is owned by the North Waterford pool mill price, H. P. Elliott and is a son of Gen. Garfield.
 Prof. W. R. Chapman of Bethel, has three trotters here, Romanus, Deas and charge. They are "Robenia" "W. R. C." and Niles. The last trotter starts in the 2:25 cl. as Thursday.
 Outdoors.
 Edwin M. Lakin of Norway runs a shooting gallery and keeps the boys interested.
 Cobb, Doyle & Skechel of Lewiston runs a popcorn roaster and X-ray machine.
 George Cotton came up from Auburn and sold bears, cigars and tobacco to the boys that like a taste of each.
 L. S. Sessions peddles Maine's improved all leather suspender. It will almost never wear out.
 John Ward and James Harrington, two Lewiston lads of only 15 or 16 years, got bawny Monday evening, and started to have a fight on the grounds. Detective Bassett gathered them in and accommodated them with a night's lodging in Norway lock-up.
 Judge Davis of the Municipal Court gave the boys some good advice. They promised better behavior and were released with a warning to not be found in court again.
 Roscoe G. Stephens of Backfield shows the Gem windmill made in Batavia, Ill. He has the agency for Western Maine. It is simple and strong in construction with galvanized iron sails and vane. Revolves on ball bearing turn table, pitman passing over through the center of the table giving direct stroke.
 J. N. Dyer of East North Yarmouth shows the Goodline windmill for which he is Maine agent. It revolves about a hollow post down through which passes the stroke rod, which is driven by a pitman connected with shaft by gears. Special feature is regulating by its own weight. The pitman has a direct lift. The gears are oiled from slow self-feeding oil boxes well protected.

"Become Lawful Physicians, course by mail—Diplomas."
 The above is taken from an advertisement in a Boston daily. Just think, fitted to practice medicine with diploma BY MAIL! Now suppose you were sick with a fever, would you care to employ such a graduate of medicine? We think not.

Again, suppose you had met with an accident, amputation of a limb was necessary. Would you care to have the job done by one who simply corresponded with some one and told how to do it? TOLD HOW BY MAIL! You wouldn't listen to that for a moment. You would say the idea is preposterous. Still the country is full of those who wish to fit you with spectacles, whose only knowledge has been bought by mail—with you to practice on.
